Legacy Giving

Where there's a will.....
there's a way
to help us

March 2014

CLAN Cancer Support knows that a diagnosis of cancer can be devastating and we are here to support anyone, of any age, affected by any cancer.

We understand that a cancer diagnosis affects the whole family..... our support services are available to all free of charge.

We understand how anxiety affects those living with cancer..... our wide range of complementary therapies offer relaxation.

We understand how difficult it is to be away from home..... we offer affordable B&B accommodation for those attending Aberdeen hospitals for appointments or treatment.

We understand that people want support close to home..... we have bases throughout North East Scotland, Moray, Orkney and Shetland.

CLAN.... supporting.... caring.... understanding

How will your gift help us?

CLAN is an independent charity and we rely on fundraising and donations. It currently costs £2.5 million a year to provide our services across Aberdeenshire, Moray, Orkney and Shetland. Your gift will help us to continue to offer our support services free of charge to anyone affected by cancer.

A common misconception is that a legacy has to be an enormous sum of money. This is not true. We understand that family and friends are likely to come first in your thoughts. But any legacy left in a will, no matter how small or large, really will make a difference.

“I don't know how I could have coped without CLAN the past three years. It is an amazing place”

How to make a will/leave a legacy

However old, or young, you are you should consider making a will. This is the only way of ensuring that those close to you and any charities you care about are supported in the way you wish.

Drawing up a will, or amending a will to include a legacy, is a relatively straight forward process. However we would always suggest that you use a qualified solicitor.

There are two main types of legacy – residuary and pecuniary.

Residuary – this is where the legacy is expressed as a percentage or remainder of your estate after expenses and other specific bequests have been deducted

Pecuniary – this is a gift of a specified sum of money

You can also bequeath specific items to a charity in your will, for example property, jewellery or shares.

Legacy giving can be tax efficient – your solicitor will be able to give further information about this.

You may also wish to consider setting up a Trust Fund – your solicitor will be able to give further information about this.

“A lovely facility which takes a lot of the stress away from why you are here”
